Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 11 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Brightening up to reveal sunny spells and isolated showers.

Today:
Although rather cloudy at first, Saturday should be a drier and brighter day than recently overall, with sunny spells and perhaps the odd light shower later. Feeling rather warm and humid once again, especially as the breeze eases. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry overnight, with cloud reforming in places, otherwise allowing some local mist and fog to develop in the light wind. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Sunday:
Dry for most with some warm sunny spells, after early fog patches disperse. Cloud probably increasing across parts of the far west later, perhaps culminating in some late rain here. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Changeable through this period, with relatively high uncertainty. Perhaps mainly fine Monday, but a risk of rain in the west. Likely staying unsettled hereafter, with further rain and showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.